The Southern African Institute of Mining and Metallurgy

is organising a

Sulphur and Sulphuric Acid 2009 Conference

4-6 MAY 2009 · SUN CITY, SOUTH AFRICA

BACKGROUND

The generation and handling of both sulphur, sulphuric acid and SO₂ remains an important topic in the South African industry. This event supplies a forum for producers, technology suppliers, consumers, the legislator and other role players in the industry to discuss relevant issues on the topic. To ensure that you stay abreast with all recent developments in the industry, The Southern African Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, invites you to participate in a conference on the production, utilization and conversion of sulphur, sulphuric acid and SO₂ as a product in metallurgical and other processes to be held on 4-6 May 2009, at Sun City, South Africa.

OBJECTIVES

- > Expose SAIMM members to issues relating to the generation and handling of sulphur, sulphuric acid and SO₂ in the metallurgical and other industries.
- > Provide opportunity to producers and consumers of sulphur and sulphuric acid and related products to be exposed to new technologies and equipment in the field.
- > Enable participants to share information and experience with application of such technologies.
- > Provide opportunity to role players in the industry to discuss common problems and their solutions.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

The Conference will be of value to:

- > Metallurgical and chemical engineers working in the minerals and metals processing and chemical industries
- > Metallurgical/Chemical/Plant Management
- > Project Managers
- > Research and development personnel
- > Academic personnel and students
- > Technology providers and engineering firms for engineering solutions
- > Equipment and system providers
- > Relevant legislators
- > Environmentalists.
